Amerinet Undertakes Imaging Equipment Survey To Gauge Needs of Members

St. Louis (September 10, 2009) - Amerinet Inc, a leading national healthcare group purchasing organization has engaged well-known and respected firm, IMV Ltd., to conduct a custom survey and analysis research project to best identify and address the imaging capital equipment needs of its members.

“With the challenges of today’s market, we feel it is important to continually assess the needs of our members,” said Ken Rosemann, Amerinet’s vice president for laboratory and diagnostic imaging. “The results of this survey will benefit members by helping Amerinet choose the most desired vendors and timing for contracts, promotions and TargetBuys.”

IMV will contact Amerinet members to identify capital needs and plans, vendor satisfaction, preferred vendors, timelines for equipment acquisition and other pertinent issues.

As an added value for participating, qualified respondents will be offered a summary overview of the information collected. This summary will provide benchmarks to members, comparing their level of technology adoption and the age of their equipment with that of other Amerinet members.

Since 1977, IMV (www.imvinfo.com) has been a leading supplier of market information to the diagnostic healthcare industry, providing site-specific databases and comprehensive market reports that address the radiology, cardiology, oncology and diagnostic laboratory markets.
